AID FOR FLOOD SUFFERERS WILL NOT BE WANTING*Daly City Citizens Rise To Meet Emergency In Eastern Quarters

The following telegram has been received by the San Mateo County Chapter American Red Cross:

"Reports received late tonight indicate 38,000 families in eleven states driven from their homes in flooded areas. This number expected to increase. These people all looking to Red Cross for immediate relief, including shelter, food, clothing and medical care. Minimum funds of $3,000,000 necessary to provide care for the flood victims for indefinite period until they can return to their homes. Please take immediate action raise your chapter quota of $2000 in behalf of these disaster stricken families. Feel confident that people in your community will wish to give promptly and generously. Remittances should be forwarded to Pacific Branch Headquarters promptly as possible. Report progress daily."

(Signed) Carey T. Grayson.

Miss Helen Cheeseborough, vice chairman of the San Mateo County Chapter, states:

"The people of San Mateo County have never failed to respond generously to any appeal for help. The present emergency is one which should touch all hearts. It is difficult for Californians to realize the suffering of these homeless people, since the flood has come upon them following a winter of unparalleled severity. Let us give to their relief as a thank offering for the blessings which we of San Mateo County enjoy."

The quota allotted for the city of Daly City is $60. The city council on Monday evening of this week voted $10 toward this allotment. This newspaper and a number of our citizens have contributed liberally and it is believed more than our allotted quota will be forth coming.

ANNOUNCEMENT OF CANDIDACY
MEETS APPROVAL*Many People Rally To Standard Of Cavagnaro
For Councilman

The announcement of the candidacy of Edmund Cavagnaro for City Councilman in last week's issue of the Daly City Record has been the subject of much favorable comment by the citizenry of Daly City.

Cavagnaro, who as a boy played baseball on the sand lots of Daly City, when Daly City was nothing more than a smattering of tumble down shacks built after the San Francisco fire of 1906, is known as an amiable, likeable, progressive and energetic young man. He is well known in fraternal and civic organizations and has actively supported progressive principles and legislation for many years.

The people of Daly City believe that the best way to judge what a man will do is to look at what he has done. "Let's take a look at the record," as New York Al Smith would say. The people feel confident that Cavagnaro, who has been so active and progressive in all things in private life, will continue to be so as a City Councilman and that such a man can and will well and truly represent them as a legislator of our city.

NEW FRANCHISE
REQUEST BY P G & E*Company Offers 2 Per Cent
Of Gross Revenue In Unincorporated Districts

The San Mateo County Board of Supervisors on Monday carefully studied the franchise offered by the Pacific Gas & Electric Company, for which the county will receive $1500 annually. The franchise was submitted by I. B. Adams, manager of the San Jose division of the company.

Claiming that it holds two franchises at present, the P. G. & E. offered to pay the county 2 per cent of its gross revenues for unincorporated districts, which it is estimated would amount to $1500, under the proposed franchise. In the past nothing has been paid by the company.

The copy of the agreement was turned over for detailed study to the county executive, county engineer and district attorney.

RACING IN ITSELF
SUFFICES FOR FANS

By J. W. MARCHBANK

Racing in California is in a position now to stand on its own legs, if we are permitted to make use of a rather mixed metaphor. There is no valid reason for doing anything that is not an integral part of the great game. Emphasis should be placed first, last and all the time on the sport itself, with no side issues whatever.

There is a vast difference between "big time" and "small time" racing, just as in baseball the people differentiate between the major league and the bush league brand of ball. Stunts are out of order in any pastime that has an appeal of its own. Fans go to the races to witness the running of their favorite horses and for that alone.

Tanforan is furnishing entertainment of the major kind and I intend to bend all my energies to keeping it on its high level. My special endeavor will be to put on events to encourage breeding, as there must be constant expansion along that line to maintain the racing itself at its best.

There is no reason on the California turf for lickspittles. Any group seeking aggrandizement can go elsewhere. That goes for individuals, too.

The mistaken notion that the sport needs extraneous props has disappeared, we hope never to return. Interest in breeding and racing is increasing all the time and why take any chance of diverting that hard-won interest?

As I have indicated a number of times in these columns, every effort should be made to have racing conducted in such a way people simply think of the track as the testing ground of the thoroughbred. The phrase "improvement of the breed of horses" has gone out of fashion, but that is exactly the purpose of the contests out on the mile oval, such as my Tanforan.

Along with the achievement of the aim of breeding ever better performers comes the wholesome joy of the spectators in seeing supremacy determined at a particular distance, with certain weights up.

PRESS LUNCHEON
AT BURLINGAME*Congress Of Parents And Teachers Honors Newspaper Woman In Seventeenth District.

The newspaper women of San Mateo County were the honored guests of the Seventeenth District, California Congress of Parents and Teachers, Tuesday of this week, at the annual press luncheon held in Jackson's Tea Room in Burlingame.

The publicity chairman of the various units nearly all attended.

The women of the press were seated at a special table. The flower committee presented each guest with a Lei, made from braided spring blossoms.

Music was furnished by Mrs. Albert B. Graziop, soloist, and Mrs. Paul D. Hammat.

The community singing was under the direction of Mrs. Frederick C. Lee, music chairman of the Seventeenth District, and Mrs. C. M. Bandtel, her associate.

The address of welcome was delivered by Mrs. R. D. Richards, the district president. Mrs. J. F. Coad, district publicity chairman and mistress of ceremonies, introduced the members of the press to the group.

Mrs. Beulah Schindler, club editor of the San Mateo Times, gave a fine talk entitled, "It Was In The Paper." Miss Pansy Jewett Abbott, county superintendent of schools of San Mateo County, gave the group a splendid discourse on "Rambles of the Press."

The Seventeenth District may well be proud of Mrs. Coad and the reciprocity chairman, Mrs. B. D. Ralston, who with their splendid committees helped to make the press luncheon such a splendid and delightful affair.

HOME TEAM TO MEET OLD RIVAL

The Daly City Tanforan will play the Golden State Meats at Jefferson Union High School diamond at 2 o'clock next Sunday afternoon.

These two teams have met six times and each has won three games. The Meats won the last contest 3 to 2, and it proved to be a hard fought game. A good battle can be expected, as both teams want to win this Sunday's game.

The local team will have two or three new players trying out for jobs on the club to play in the State League, which starts a week from next Sunday, April the 5 at Modesto.

GREATEST OF ALL
SEA PLAYS HERE*Sensational Drama Of Hate
And Adventure To Show
At The Daly City Theater

Proclaimed the greatest of all sea dramas, "Mutiny on the Bounty," will show at the Daly City Theater, Sunday and Monday, March 29 and 30, after being more than a year in production.

Aside from entertainment, it presents an authentic visual document of one of the most notable chapters of maritime history—the mutiny on the H. M. S. Bounty 150 years ago.

In the annals of the sea there is no more fascinating story than that told of the Bounty, which set sail from England in 1787, bound for Tahiti.

In charge was Lieutenant Bligh, a harsh taskmaster. Storms lengthened the voyage, food ran low and as Bligh's temper increased he raged at his underfed and embittered crew. The golden days that followed the arrival at Tahiti temporarily quieted his men, but shortly after the start of the return voyage Bligh's tyranny brought rebellion to the breaking point and his men rose in mutiny.

"Mutiny on the Bounty" faithfully follows the original British Admiralty records and the sensational story written by Charles Nordhoff and James Norman Hall.

Three of the greatest actors either on stage or screen head the cast of more than fifty featured players. They are Charles Laughton, as Captain Bligh; Clark Gable, as Fletcher Christian, leader of the mutineers and, Franchot Tone, as Midshipman Byam.

THE TENTS ARE PITCHED

Half a million American boys will spend their vacation days under canvas, more than 300,000 of them in Boy Scout camps, where they will "learn by doing" to live on their own. Camp Royce opens June 22.

BOY SCOUT TALK AT DALY CITY HALL

Dean Vaughan MacCaughy, editor of the Sierra Educational News and member of the executive board of the San Francisco Area Council, Boy Scouts of America, will address a select group of citizens of this community on Tuesday evening, March 31, at 8 o'clock in the Assembly Room of the City Hall. Dean MacCaughy will discuss a matter of prime importance to the program of boyhood development in Daly City.

CELEBRATE AT VICTORY DINNER*Approval Of Jefferson
Bonds Cause Of Celebration

Members of the board of trustees and the faculty of Jefferson Union High School enjoyed themselves at a special dinner served in the school dining room on St. Patrick's evening.

The dinner was in the form of a victory celebration in connection with the recent bond issue which passed by a large majority.

Mr. James Ferguson, principal, presided and called on the members of the board who responded with brief remarks. Several members of the faculty also responded.

After the dinner the Board of Trustees met in regular session to canvass the vote of the bond election. There being 1450 votes in favor and only 363 against the election for the bonds was declared carried.

Resing & McGuiness, the architects, were present at the meeting and reported that they were pushing the plans and specifications towards completion with all possible haste.

After considerable deliberation, it was decided by the Board to place the gymnasium building so that the front of it would be in line with the present carpentering building.

Upon motion of Mrs. Jensen, seconded by Mrs. Brown, a resolution was unanimously passed expressing the thanks of the Board of Trustees to the Daly City Record, to the numerous organizations of the district, and to the many private individuals including the teachers and students for their support of the bond issue.

GRAND DAD DIDN'T BREAK HIS ARM

Last Sunday evening the editor was informed by telephone from Hayward that a "brand new nine pound boy had arrived at the home of his son in law and daughter there."

Of course, the editor was so elated that his first impulse was to get a "spot" on the radio and broadcast the good news to all and sundry. However, after considering the dire consequences such a rash act might entail, he decided to forego this urge and quietly tell about it in The Record.

The reasons for this decision were: He, the editor, had been told that a short time ago a Daly City official had "broken his arm" during a radio broadcast, by reaching around to pat himself on the back; also, there was the matter of cost to be considered (regardless as to who paid the bill—taxpayers or just good friends), because twenty-five "smackers" do not come in such plentiful bunches these "piping" times, even if you like to "pipe." And, then again, the impression might prevail in some quarters that somebody was trying to "blow his own horn."

Nuff sed!

SHRINE HANDICAP
AT TANFORAN
GREAT SUCCESS*Track Juveniles Will Strut
At Home Course In Four Furlongs Tomorrow

Last week Tanforan had one of the successful week ends of the spring meeting, when thousands of Shriners and their families were there for the Shrine Handicap. So successful was the Shrine benefit day that Shriners and their families visiting this community next summer, on their way to the Washington convention, will be assured of a great time.

This week end promises to be equally as attractive as was last, because Saturday track juveniles will strut their stuff for a purse of more than $2000. Saturday (tomorrow) will truly be juvenile day, because the feature race of the day will be for two year olds at four furlongs. At the present time there are some attractive juveniles at the San Bruno oval, and Saturday they will be entered in the feature event of the day.

Among the favorites for Saturday's go are Pasha and Roller Coaster, who gave good account of themselves during the recess this week. Pasha has taken some stout stock workouts this week. The horse is one of the Selznick stables.

There is wide interest at the track for the coming Marchbank Handicap for $10,000, which will be run on the closing day of the meeting, April 11. The best at the track will be entered in this event, and among them is expected to be Top Row, winner of the $100,000 purse at Santa Anita this year. Trainer "Lex" Wilson was waiting today for an answer from the Whitney stable as to whether or not it would permit "Sonny" Workman to fly West to ride in the Marchbank Handicap.

In the great derby is expected to be Indian Broom, the horse that romped off with the $2500 Shrine purse Saturday. Indian Broom took the Shrine by more than a length, and is getting to be quite a horse in the money races.

WESTERN HORSE MAY COMPETE IN EASTERN DERBY*Good Showing By Indian
Broom May Win Him
Chance In Kentucky Classic.

The Marchbank Handicap field may be the means of sending a western owned horse across the country for the Kentucky Derby.

Since the Shrine Derby victory of Indian Broom last Saturday his followers are shouting his name as a possibility for the Churchill classic. Indian Broom is the only horse in western racing nominated for the May three year old test. His last quotation was 50 to 1. Although sold to a western stable at the conclusion of Santa Anita and seemingly destined to remain on the coast until June, Indian Broom's good form makes it necessary for the future book price layers to still hold him at 50 to 1.

Major Austin Taylor and his trainer, Derrill Cannon, have decided to send Indian Broom out with Special Agent in a double attempt to annex the Marchbank Classic. Should the three year old be successful there is reason to believe the Vancouver millionaire would decide to send Indian Broom on to Kentucky to fill the engagement for which he is an eligible.

EASTER SUNRISE
UNION SERVICES
AT REDWOOD CITY*Large Concourse Expected
To Trek To Emerald
Lake For Ceremony

Peninsulans this year will gather once again for Easter Sunrise Services in the natural bowl at Emerald Lake, west of Redwood City, where on April 12 at 5:39 a. m. a brief program of worship will be held in accordance with a six-year tradition.

Mayor Charles G. Lambert of Redwood City has been designated as master of ceremonies by the Menokirk Club, Protestant men's organization of that city, sponsors of the rites.

Music by an orchestra, choral group and vocalists, an Easter message by a speaker to be chosen by the Ministerial Union of Redwood City, and congregational singing will comprise the program.

Approximately 4000 persons gathered last year to attend the inspirational services, and fully as many, it is expected, will be present this Easter. Capacity of the bowl is approximately 12,000.

SHOULD ELECT
MAN WHO DON'T
ALWAYS SAYS YES*John J. Fahey, Incumbent
Councilman Files For Re-
Election On April 14

John J. Fahey, long time resident of Daly City, and for the last four years minority member of the City Council, filed nomination papers, Wednesday of this week, seeking re-election to the board.

During his four years on the council, Fahey has fought militantly to protect the citizens and taxpayers from discriminatory and unfair legislation. By his vigilance he has forestalled several attempts to introduce practices and policies inimical to the best interests of our community.

While his position as the sole dissenting member of the council has, on many occasions, been misrepresented by his opponents, he has never adopted a course of least resistance nor subjected his conscience to the dictates of political expediency. When he thought he was right, Fahey has stood alone against the majority; while, on the other hand, when he believed the majority four were right he has never refused to support them whole heartedly and unsparringly.

The re-election of Fahey and the election of a man who has the same objects in view will assure the people true representation on their City Council.

Edmund Cavagnaro is such a man.

SPRING MEETING GETTING BETTER

Tanforan's spring meeting grows as it proceeds.

The biggest week in history at the Marchbank was concluded last Saturday. An even bigger five days of sport seems in the offing.

The Juvenile Stakes, bringing California's good home bred youngsters into a broil with eastern invaders, takes the leading position in the card for tomorrow (Saturday). This interesting battle carries an added money value of $2000, and will find the two year olds going four furlongs and a half. This stretches them out into a longer distance than they have been traveling heretofore. The speed horses must meet the ones with stamina. From present indications a banner field will go postward. Thirty-six have been nominated and fifteen may start.

CANDIDATES FILED FOR CITY ELECTION

At the close of the period for filing nomination papers for the offices to be voted for at municipal election to be held on April 14, 1936, the following persons had declared their candidacy:

TOWNSEND CLUB HEARS SPEAKER AT LAST MEETING

Dr. Coates Analyzes Situation And Points Way To Remedies

Dr. M. W. Coates of San Rafael, spoke before the Townsend Club of Daly City at its last meeting. His remarks, in part, were as follows:

"Most of the opposition to the plan is due to ignorance. No man who is fair will oppose it if he understands it."

"Mr. Hoover placed the plan in the realm of the dreamers. Is he unconscious of the fact that behind the world's greatest accomplishments stands the dreamers."

"Dr. Townsend is not standing on a platform of broken promises, but on a plan that will surely lead us out of the darkness of the depression into the glorious light of liberty from poverty and distress."

"Hearst opposes the plan, as do the bankers, because the 2 per cent transaction tax will make them pay on their tax exempt bonds."

The Metropolitan papers, in their opposition, are simply listening to the voice of their masters."

Discussing the economic phase of the Townsend Plan, Coates said three essentials mark it: supply and demand, balance between production and consumption and proper method of distribution.

The plan would result in an addition of 12,000,000 employees, he said. The problem of youth in the failure of 5,000,000 to secure jobs since graduation would be solved.

TOWNSEND CLUB TO HOLD WHIST

Daly City Townsend Club No. 1, will hold their monthly whist on Tuesday evening, April 7, in the Theater building on Mission street.

The committee composed of Mrs. Nagle and Mrs. Chesney are working hard to procure prizes and assure everybody they will have many valuable prizes. Come and bring your friends.

Play starts at 8:30 o'clock.

ALL DAY SESSION AT BURLINGAME

Mrs. R. D. Richards, president, Seventeenth District, California Congress of Parents and Teachers, at the all day session held Thursday of last week in the auditorium of Burlingame High School, reported on various lectures given by Mrs. Charles E. Roe, National Congress of Parents and Teachers recently in this state, and also announced that in recognition of the effective work of the congress in safety, a gift of ten thousand dollars has been received by the national for the purpose of furthering its safety program.

The morning and afternoon programs were under the direction of Mrs. C. A. Andrews, seventh vice president and director of the department of health.

Ten months ago, Mrs. Andrews secured Miss Lillian B. Hill, state chairman of mental hygiene, as speaker of the day. In her talk Miss Hill definitely emphasized the importance of establishing social habits and desirable attitudes when children are in primary and elementary grades. Thou shalt not destroy personality. Educational service of tomorrow will be judged in the terms of its success in orienting the mental attitude and feelings of boys and girls. Miss Hill was enthusiastically received and left inspiring thoughts with members representing units from all over San Mateo County.

First aid certificates were issued by Miss Helen P. Chesebrough, representing the Red Cross, to members of classes who have completed courses under Mrs. Ray Boulton, and passed required examinations. Seventeenth District is the only one out of the twenty-seven in the state to have a registered first aid instructor.

During the afternoon, Inspectors Ford and Murphy of the California Highway Patrol gave talks on safety. San Mateo firemen demonstrated artificial respiration and the proper transportation of injured persons.

It was announced that Mrs. E. I. Bartlett, president of the district 1932-1933, was nominated for sixth vice president of California Congress of Parents and Teachers.

The names of the following members were submitted by the nominating committee for election in April: President, Mrs. Elmer I. Miller, Bur-

Made Under Actual Owner Driving Conditions

CHRYSLER 6 AVERAGES 20.5 MILES PER GALLON!

Amazing gas economy was proved by three Chryslers . . . an Airflow, a De Luxe 8 and a Six . . . on a trip from San Francisco to Del Monte and return, last week. Automobile editors of leading San Francisco newspapers served as official observers. Cars were fueled at the start and checked at the finish, in their presence. Actual owner driving practice was followed throughout the entire trip . . . 45 to 50 miles per hour. Results at the right tell the story!

GAS SAVING TRANSMISSION* GIVES 1 MILE IN 5, FREE!

Chrysler's remarkable Gas Saving Transmission and other important Chrysler engineering advancements were responsible for this amazing economy. Chrysler Airflow design, which greatly diminishes air resistance, was also a vital factor in the record made by the Airflow Imperial. Any Chrysler owner may expect the same economy in the operation of his own car. Chrysler's gas saving transmission cuts motor revolutions one-third at cruising speeds . . . saves oil . . . engine wear . . . gives you 1 mile in 5, free.

See these cars today! They're America's smartest . . . most luxurious . . . and by far the most economical of their class.

HERE'S THE RECORD:

Chrysler Airflow Imperial 17.2 Miles Per Gallon

Chrysler De Luxe Eight 17.9 Miles Per Gallon

Chrysler Six 20.5 Miles Per Gallon

The above records are attested in an Official Certificate signed by leading San Francisco Automobile Editors. This Certificate may be seen at our showrooms.

CHAPTER I

The house stood alone on a sand-dune overlooking the sea—dark, deserted, and silent, except for the swish of the rain blowing against its shingles. Wet to his skin, and shivering, the Duke struggled to pry open a window.

From his dank coat pocket, the Duke drew a cheap jackknife and a tiny searchlight. With these in his hands, he turned to look toward the highway. It was invisible, two hundred yards from the porch on which he stood, winding over and around and about these dunes.

The Duke's thumb pressed the button, and, momentarily, the ray revealed waving wet beach-grass, and a single scrub pine bent in the wind. Then, carefully, he began cutting away the dry putty that held a pane of glass. It was slow work. "Why don't I break the damned thing?" the Duke asked himself, and, a minute later, felt the unshattered glass drop into his hand.

It was easy to open the window, then, and easy for a slim and agile man to climb through. Once inside the house, he paused. Would the electric lights be working, and would it be safe to turn them on? Why not? Half the summer residences in Southampton had been opened for the season. Even an observant passer-by—if there were to be one—would think a brightly lighted room less remarkable than a furtive ray. The Duke touched a switch his searchlight had disclosed beside a door.

He grinned, and anyone who had seen that grin might have found it hard to mind. It was an ingratiating grin, in a pleasant, likeable face. A lean face, weather-beaten and a little boney, but with large, kind, steel-gray eyes, surmounted by a thatch of unruly brick-red hair. The Duke's trim figure stretched a tidy six feet above the worn soles of his untidy boots, but his gray suit, though worn, too, and wet, was well cut and well made, revealing square shoulders and firm muscles.

"Wonder if there's any grub," said the Duke.

All the kitchen shelves bore brightly-colored tin boxes, with bright lettering, but they were empty. The bread-box was empty, of course; no use opening that. But above the shelves was a cupboard, and in that cupboard were rows of canned things—each can neatly wrapped in paper—sardines, anchovies, caviar, chicken, ham, tongue—all sorts of things. "Hospitalable people," said the Duke. "I wonder where they keep the coffee."

Thirty minutes later, His Grace had dined sustainably, if not well. Half the contents of the pot of coffee still bubbling on the stove had warmed him comfortably, and he washed the dishes. Then he put everything back in place, turned out the lights, and, whistling merrily, went upstairs.

At the top of the steps was a kind of library—book-lined, with doors on either side, and, at its end, windows facing the sea. Even through the blackness, the intruder could discern the almost luminous white of breaking waves.

Again, he touched a switch, and, this time, lights sprang into being in shaded table-lamps, doubly shaded now by winter wrappings. A fire had been laid in the grate. He lit the fire, and a cigar, and then opened a door on his right.

This was a man's room, gracious and inviting. The Duke felt the mattress drawn back over the footboard of the bed, and, sniffing a pungent odor of cedar and camphor, turned his attention to a closet across the room. A very large closet, with an electric light in it, and built-in drawers, and a cedar chest. Atop the chest were two pairs of slippers, and above it hung the only garment visible, a blue-striped dressing gown of soft, light flannel. His own apparel still clinging damply, the Duke took the dressing gown and slippers back to the blazing fire, and, standing luxuriously before it, changed his clothes.

Still neat, he carried the gray suit and the wet undergarments back to the bedroom, folded the trousers carefully, and laid them on the box-spring. With one hand, he flung the mattress into place over them.

He returned to the fire, stretching himself lazily in a huge, over-stuffed chair. Outside, the storm was growing steadily worse. Wind-flung against the windows, the rain kept up its incessant swish. A little puddle formed on one of the sills. The Duke mopped it up with an old cloth that had been spread over the big chair, and looked through the glass into a cluster of bushes, illuminated from the windows, that tossed their tops frantically, as though moved by wild despair. "It's a filthy night," the man in the dressing gown thought, as he sauntered back to the crackling logs, drawing contentedly at his cigar, and pausing to take a book from the loaded shelves. "A filthy night."

In the thick of it he had been an hour before. Penniless, overcoatless, trudging along the cement-paved road from Bridgehampton, five miles to the east. Was it five miles, he thought, or fifteen, or fifty? On foot, he had left New York that morning just after day-break. Jobless and flat broke.

For a month—all through April, in fact—the Duke had tramped the streets looking for "a regular job." "What the h—l makes me want to keep straight?" he had asked himself, again and again. "That's all right for guys with an income. If somebody'd started me in a rubber-tired pram, and wheeled me into college, and out again into papa's office—sure, I'd run straight. Why not? Who couldn't be a knight in armor? But being a knight without armor—that's different. When you get dumped into a fight, naked, with nothing but your bare fists, and the whole world coming at you with brick-bats and brass knuckles, what a d—d fool you are to stick to the Marquis of Queensbury Rules!"

Still, he had stuck—reasonably, at least—in the face of what seemed almost a conspiracy of discouragement. Fired out of Hollywood for a theft of which he was innocent as an unborn babe. "All right," he had said; "I've got a few hundreds saved, and I'll go East, and start all over again." Confidently, he had left the railway station in Chicago, only to have his pocket picked before he had got as far as the hotel. He had nearly frozen in Chicago. He had nearly starved. And then he had hitch-hiked to New York, riding freights when he could. A pal had christened him "the Duke," because of his clothes, and his English, and the grand manner he had acquired in Filmdom.

New York—with those Hollywood shoes wearing thin, and that Hollywood gray suit, that had cost $125, getting frayed and baggy. Part of a jobless army in a city without jobs. He had eaten his overcoat—or the proceeds from it, at any rate—and paid the last dime for a bunk in a flop-house.

A love of books, a sense of humor, and the wanderlust—these he had inherited from an Irish father, whose name was Francis X. Gilbert, and whose proudest boast was that he came from the University of Dublin. He had died in China, nearly six years ago, leaving the seventeen-year-old boy, Barry, to fight his way from Hong Kong to Hollywood, and from Chicago to New York. And so Barry had crossed the Queensboro Bridge to Long Island, and picked up a truck, and charmed the driver into buying him a pretty good lunch at Huntington, Bay Shore in a passing car, and Sayville on foot, and another truck to Bridgehampton, where he had lost his bearings and tramped back miles before he found himself again on the edge of Southampton.

It was black night, and beginning to rain. A cold wind had sprung up from the northeast. An endless, winding road, and wind-and-rain-swept dunes, with solitary houses. Grand houses they were, all of them. A few had lights inside—and dogs wandering about, as he had discovered in the course of two desperate excursions. Most of these dwellings were dark and vacant. "Houses without people," the Duke had muttered, still not-too-resentfully, "and people without houses. It doesn't seem fair."

His teeth were chattering by now, and his feet squished in his wet shoes. And this house had seemed so utterly deserted, so entirely safe and secure. "Ten o'clock," said the Duke. "What's the chance of anyone finding me in there tonight? And, if they do, it's better than freezing to death. I'll be on my way again at daybreak."

Now, fed and warm, he was growing drowsy before the fire. "It must be swell to live like this all the time," he brooded, dreamily. "I wouldn't break into anybody's house if I had one like this. Gosh, I guess I'll sleep here. It's warmer than the bed, and I've got a long hike ahead of me in the morning."

His head fell forward, and his eyes were closing, when he heard an automobile door slam, and an instant later, voices and the shuffling of feet on the porch directly beneath him.

The Duke sprang to the electric switch.

Fast he moved, his wits worked faster still.

"No," he thought; "that won't do. If the lights go out, they'll know there's something wrong!"

The breakfast room window—that was it! But not in dressing gown and slippers. "Damn fool, to take my clothes off!" thought the Duke. Who were these people, anyway, driving up to a closed house at this hour? Thieves? Stragglers, like himself? Hardly—in a big limousine like that he glimpsed hastily from the window.

Well, what next? Jail, probably. How long could they give a man for unlawful entry? "Damn!" said the Duke. And then he heard the lower door open, and a woman's voice in the hall. "Maybe I can talk my way out," he thought, and started down the stairs. "Who's there?" he called, bravely, as his feet touched the first landing.

A man answered.

"Willets," he said. "Willets, the butler. Is that you, Mr. Ridder?"

And the lights went on.

Standing there, on the landing naked except for the dressing gown, the Duke found himself facing a party of four. Willets, with his hat in his hand, squat and powerfully built and ludicrously bald. Another man in a chauffeur's uniform, and two women—one quite young, and the other middle-aged and stout. They seemed propitiatory, and the fact gave him instant courage.

"Is that you, Mr. Ridder?"

The question had been asked first in the dark, but now it was repeated in a glare that made every face plainly visible. The butler didn't know Mr. Ridder, then. That was "a lucky break." It would give him time to dress, and get away.

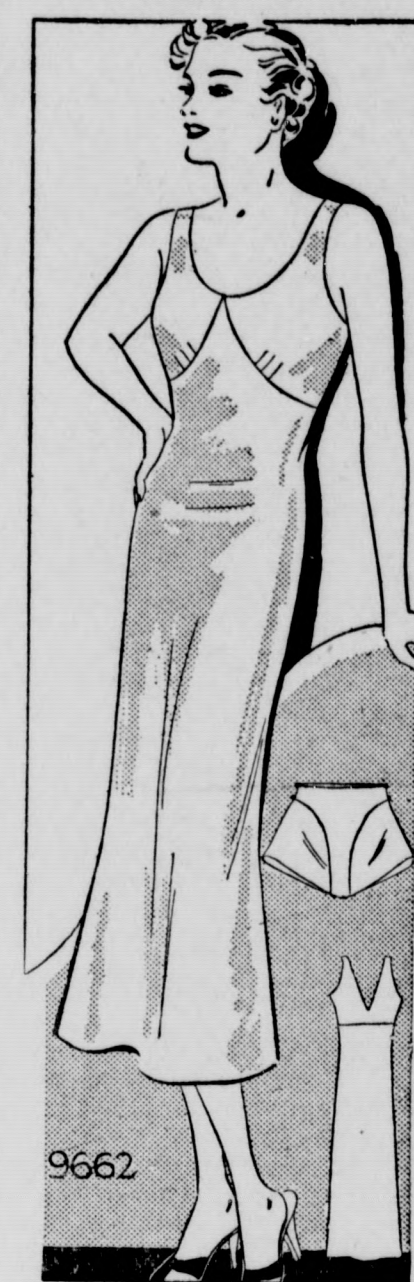

"Yes," he answered, quietly. "You're a little late, aren't you?"

"Sorry, sir," said the butler. "I didn't have any idea you'd be here, sir. Your mother said you wasn't coming until tomorrow. Evans had to take 'em down to the ship—her and your father, sir—and then he had to go back to the hotel, and pick up me, and cook, and the maid. The storm didn't help, neither, and we stopped at Patchogue for dinner. I hope you ain't going to be put out, sir."

Nipponese Typists Have but 2,000 Characters to Master

The Nipponese manipulators of typewriters have to struggle with a keyboard of 2,000 characters to be picked out by hand. The slugs have individual compartments in a sliding tray. The stenographer must press a knob in picking out these individual signs of the Katakana Hiragana forms.

Characters which once were pictured have been reduced to their simplest forms on the typewriter and now represent ideas only when placed in sound and thought sequence. When the knob is moved directly over the selected character, pressure is exerted. A metal arm pushes across a tiny ink roller and against the paper which is rolled on a drum. The drum shifts and revolves as the letter progresses.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Pawning Wives Great Idea Till Mates Want 'Em Back

Husbands of Peking, China, who thought the idea of pawning their wives a great one, now are appealing to the police to get their mates back. They say that when they were ready to repay the loan they could not redeem the wives. The trouble is not with the lenders, but with the women themselves who refuse to return to their erstwhile husbands on a variety of pretexts. Above all, they accuse their husbands of harboring the design of sending them to Manchukuo next, and state that, although they are prepared for everything in reason, that is a step to which as patriotic Chinese women they can never agree. There is no law dealing with this particular form of pawn-broking.

By Chief A. P. Chesney
Though the chimney and flues are vitally necessary attributes of the heating plant as a means of maintaining a draft and carrying off smoke and gases, they are not the source of heat, that part being played by the stove or furnace, both of which present definite hazards.

Usually the hazards are due to faulty installation.

Sometimes furnaces are set too close to unprotected woodwork or there is insufficient clearance above them; provided there is a satisfactory protective covering for the ceiling, fifteen inches between it and the top of the furnace is sufficient.

Woodwork subjected to prolonged heat becomes excessively dry and requires only a spark, or perhaps a little extra heat to ignite it.

This is liable to happen on an extra cold night when you build a larger fire than usual.

Furnaces should be placed on solid foundations, encased on sides and tops with incombustible protection and should comprise, with their ash receptacles, completely isolated units. (Heaters Continued)

LESSON SERMON OF CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

"The word of the Lord endureth for ever. And this is the word which by the gospel is preached unto you." These words from I Peter comprise the Golden Text to be used Sunday, March 29, in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, branches of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Mass.

The subject of the Lesson-Sermon will be "Reality." Included among the Scriptural selections will be: "Now when John had heard in the prison the works of Christ, he sent two of his disciples, And said unto him, Art thou he that should come, or do we look for another? Jesus answered and said unto them, Go and shew John again those things which ye do hear and see: The blind receive their sight, and the lame walk, the lepers are cleansed, and the deaf hear, the dead are raised up, and the poor have the gospel preached to them" (Matt. 11: 2-5).

The following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, will also be included: "Jesus' works established his claim to the Messiahship. In reply to John's inquiry, 'Art thou he that should come,' Jesus returned an affirmative reply, recounting his works instead of referring to his doctrine, confident that his exhibition of the divine power to heal would fully answer the question" (p. 131).

NEW BOY IN TOWN

Mr. and Mrs. J. Lewis of Templeton avenue are receiving the congratulations of their many friends on the birth of a son in U. C. Hospital, Thursday of last week.

The young fellow tipped the scales at 7 pounds and 6 ounces. He is the second child in the family.

RELIGION IN THE NEWS

(By Rev. Miles Dawson)

Jesus Christ was claimed to be the "Living Word of God," and the Bible, the "Written Word of God." If the living Word came as prophet, might we not expect that the written Word came as prophet? One method of filling this office is to predict the future. The one untaught in the Scripture becomes skeptical when prediction appears, but there is no hurt in reading the Bible with the newspaper, if they correspond in the least. For instance, Leviticus 26 and Deuteronomy 28 tell that the disobedient Jewish nation would receive severe judgment, and what followed? Dispersion into every nation of the world, persecution, hatred, and suffering. Is it a wonder the Jew puts upon his Passover table the bitter herb and salt-water, symbols of suffering and tears? But with all nations, Israel has remained a pure nation, and why? Because Deuteronomy 30:1, 3, 5 show a turning point from this judgment, and the promise is given that Israel shall be restored in the land of their fathers. Jeremiah 30:18, 19; Jeremiah 32:37, 43, 44; and others, support this prophecy, and now take in your hand a good geography of the world since the Great War. What do you find? Palestine, a British mandate, in the hands of the Jew. The chief cities, especially seaports, such as Haifa and Tel-Aviv, under complete control of the Jew.

CALVARY CHURCH SUNDAY SERVICES

Continuing his series of sermons on "The Offices of Christ," Pastor Miles Dawson will speak again tomorrow morning at the Calvary Baptist Church, 5724 Mission street. His sermon-subject will be "The Priestly Office of Christ." The choir will sing an anthem at this service.

At the 7:45 evening service the message will be on "When A Soul Comes To Christ."

Bring any news or ideas you may have to The Daly City Record. We will print them if they are fit to print.

BANKER SAYS CHIEF EXECUTIVE IS RIGHT

By J. W. MARCHBANK
Pioneer in Frontier Mining Work

King Edward of England has always seemed to me to possess a particularly large amount of foresight, so I was not much surprised by his remarks after visiting the poorer quarters of Glasgow. As Arthur Brisbane put it, the King summed up the problem of England, this country and the whole world, in these few words:

How do you reconcile a world that has produced the mighty steamship Queen Mary with the slums we have just seen.

Lord Melchett, to whom the ruler addressed the words, in talking to some scientists a little later, said truly it is useless to go out and solve scientific problems if we cannot solve that of abolishing poverty and all the bad things that go with it.

Encouragement of men to be independent is perfectly all right, but first of all they must have opportunities. Realizing the complex situation confronting anyone in a responsible position in the relief forces of the country, R. L. Johnson, who acted as director of the work in Pennsylvania until lately, evolved a scheme for encouraging dole recipients to venture into self-supporting jobs.

In his annual report Johnson said a system of automatic reinstatement whereby a relief recipient who accepts private employment obtains a certificate insuring his prompt return to relief if the job ends. That does away with the bugaboo of not being returned to relief and consequently the frequent hesitancy in taking a job.

The bankers are coming around to the opinion of President Roosevelt as to the causes of the depression. The other day, in an address before the Commonwealth Club, F. L. Lipman, chairman of the board of Wells, Fargo Bank and Union Trust Company, said the bankers were partly responsible for the depression. The paper was prepared by Lipman two years ago for private circulation and its statements still hold good, according to the speaker.

The well known financier cited three causes for the wave of bank failures that marked the first three years of the depression—loss of values in commodities, land, and securities; investment in bad securities; and wrong-doing on the part of bank managers.

Some of the words of the banker are worth quoting. He said:

"Banking is not dependent primarily on laws, but on men, of whom it requires skill built upon a sound theory and a sufficient experience.

"How shall we get good bankers? Here the main thing, of course, is the play of economic forces which tends to bring the more efficient men forward. That is good as far as it goes, but experience seems to teach that there should be something additional.

"Two things are suggested. There should be better principles of inspection. The public cannot in general know definitely much about the standing and position of a bank. The theory of public inspection is that no bank shall be allowed to open its doors unless it is safe to do business with.

"Second, there should be a better professional status for the banker himself; there should be courses of required studies, examinations and certificates of competence and character similar to those required for the practice of law or medicine."

California is going strong in the production of gold. In 1935 this state led the nation, with 25 per cent of the output of all the states and possessions of the United States. The nearest competitor of the "Golden State" was South Dakota.

HOME CLUB TOPS LYON AUTO RENT

Palmini And Petrocchi
Stand Out As The Batting Stars

The Daly City Tanforan nine defeated the strong Lyon Auto Club of San Francisco, Sunday afternoon, on the Jefferson diamond.

Jack Gertsberg twirled a masterly game for the home club, and only in one inning did the visitors get to his delivery for a scoring rally.

Palmini, local third sacker, connected for two doubles and a pair of singles in his five trips to bat. Petrocchi, in his lone trip to the plate, smashed a home run to left field, scoring a team mate ahead of himself.

The home club started their scoring in the third inning. Gertsberg, first up to bat, was walked. De Felippo sacrificed, going out at first. Carrasco singled to left, scoring Gertsberg. Vasquez singled to left. Palmini singled through the infield, scoring Carrasco. Kelman and Maloney both popped out to retire the side. Three hits, two runs, no errors.

In the fifth, Palmini doubled along the third base line, and scored on Maloney's single to right field. Gertsberg scored a run in the sixth inning when De Felippo singled to center. Two tallies were accounted for in the seventh on Petrocchi's home run to deep left, driving in a run ahead. De Felippo scored a run in the eighth when he was given a life on Bauman's error, and advanced on singles by Vasquez and Palmini.

The visitors scored a run in the seventh on a base on balls, coupled with an error. In the eighth two runs were scored on three singles, and in the ninth one tally went over the plate by way of an error and a single.

SPECIAL SPEAKER IS ANNOUNCED

The Grace Church of the Nazarene, corner of Vista Grande and Santa Barbara, wishes to announce special services, which will be held over the week end.

The first of these three services will be held at 7:45 p. m., Saturday evening, March 28.

Then on Sunday, March 29, at 11 o'clock and again in the evening at 7:45. Le Roy Peck of Watsonville will be the speaker. Le Roy Peck is president of the Bay Zone Young People's Society and one of the outstanding young men of the church. He plans to have two singers and musicians with him. Don't miss hearing this Gospel Trio.

Rev. Gill, the pastor, is under the impression that people cannot be too young or too old to attend Sunday School. II Timothy 2:15 tells us one of the great needs of our restless age, "Study to shew thyself approved unto God, a workman that needeth not to be ashamed, rightly dividing the word of truth." The Sunday hour is 9:45 o'clock each Sunday morning.

Resurrection Sermons In Presbyterian Church

During the Lenten season, Rev. John R. Stevenson is preaching a series of sermons on "The Resurrection of Christ." Believing that too much time is spent on considering the Death of Christ and not enough on The Resurrection, he will preach in the morning at the 11 o'clock hour on "HE EVER LIVETH!" And in the evening at 7:45 on "The Audacity of Faith."

The choir will render special music during the service. The church is located at Hanover and Evergreen.

Woman's Mind Faster Than Man's, Says Fencing Master

Crossing swords with a quick-witted woman is dangerous business, says Capt. Jean St. Maurice, fencing expert. He points out that a woman's mind works a fraction of a second faster than a man's, "and, with rapiers crossed, it's the split seconds that count."

The weaker sex can hold its own in fencing, he says, for "it's the only sport that depends on brain rather than brawn."

Do You Ever Wonder

Whether the "Pain" Remedy You Use is SAFE?

Ask Your Doctor and Find Out

Don't Entrust Your Own or Your Family's Well-Being to Unknown Preparations

THE person to ask whether the preparation you or your family are taking for the relief of headaches is SAFE to use regularly is your family doctor. Ask him particularly about Genuine BAYER ASPIRIN.

He will tell you that before the discovery of Bayer Aspirin most "pain" remedies were advised against by physicians as bad for the stomach and, often, for the heart. Which is food for thought if you seek quick, safe relief.

Scientists rate Bayer Aspirin among the fastest methods yet discovered for the relief of headaches and the pains of rheumatism, neuritis and neuralgia. And the experience of millions of users has proved it safe for the average person to use regularly. In your own interest remember this.

You can get Genuine Bayer Aspirin at any drug store—simply by asking for it by its full name, BAYER ASPIRIN. Make it a point to do this—and see that you get what you want.

Milnesia Wafers come in bottles of 20 and 48, at 35c and 60c respectively, and in convenient tins for your handbag containing 12 at 20c. Each wafer is approximately one adult dose of milk of magnesia. All good drug stores sell and recommend them.

Some Cry Without Tears; Others Feverish, Not Sick

Many persons cannot cry because their tear ducts do not function; many have a constant fever without any apparent disorder to cause it; many develop a temporary condition in which their fingers do not bleed when cut, while others have a form of defective vision in which they see only part of an object—such as only half of a man as he walks before them.—Collier's.

Pea-Shooters as Dueling Weapons Was Twain's Idea

Mark Twain once found himself a second in a duel and it was up to him to suggest the weapons to be used.

His first suggestion was pea-shooters at a mile's distance. But as nobody would get hurt they wouldn't know how the duel came out. The next suggestion, axes at one foot's distance and ruled out as altogether too serious. Eventually he got them to accept small pistols at a comparatively great distance.

CONFERENCE ON PROTECTING OUR STATE BEACHES

Prominent Speakers Are To Address Session To Be Held In South

Representative citizens of this and other communities of the State are invited by California Beaches Association to attend the first Pacific coast conference on erosion and other beach destroying factors, which will be held on March 28 at the Scripps Institution of Oceanography, La Jolla. The Scripps Institution is a division of the University of California.

A chief purpose of the conference, it is explained, is to formulate a definite plan for concerted action to check the continual losses being suffered through impairment of the recreational areas along the coast line, which are considered a state-wide asset, of no less importance to people of the interior than to those by the water's edge.

A motion picture showing effects of erosive action along the California coast will be shown during the conference.

Warms Engine Quicker

One method of warming the engine quickly that is not practiced generally enough is that of running in second gear for a little longer than usual.

In this gear combination, the drag on the engine is lighter and the choke is used less. At the same time, the motorist should be warned not to drive too rapidly in this gear combination for doing so nullifies the advantages it gives.

LET GEORGE DO IT IF IT NEEDS TO BE DONE NOW

We Hope New American Citizen Lives Up To Example Set Before Him

Little George arrived at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Myron G. Cropsey, 1307 Sycamore street, Hayward, instead of the East Oakland Hospital, where the stage had all been set for his personal appearance. The little fellow was safe in the arms of his mother, when his proud father conveyed the good news to the new grandparents in Daly City, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Pitschke.

Perhaps it was the lovely old fashioned garden all abloom in a riot of color that intrigued the sturdy young nine pounder. "What a beautiful world," he must have thought, "and here I am to do my bit to brighten and help things along."

It takes a George to do it. If anything needs to be done we know that George, patterning after his grand dad, will do it now!

"My wife likes its smartness and all that extra room—but

THIS V-8 ENGINE

OPENED MY EYES!"

Engineers have known for years the undisputed advantages of the V-type engine...simplicity, economy, compactness, ruggedness. But until Ford announced the first Ford V-8 in 1932, no one had found a way to bring these advantages to the low-priced field.

SINCE its introduction this engine has been constantly refined and improved—but the basic features of Ford design have remained unchanged through the production of over two million V-8 engines.

This is the engine that powers the beautiful 1936 Ford V-8... This is the 8-cylinder engine which, because it is V-type and compact, gives "all that extra room" that many a woman has wondered about in the Ford V-8 body.

This is the engine which proved sparkling performance and eight cylinder smoothness are economical if you have a V-type engine with a dual-down-draft carburetor that takes the "gas" used by a four and splits it into eight equal charges.

This is the engine you need for quick, sure, cold-weather starting this winter—the engine that's "opened the eyes" of over two million enthusiastic Ford owners.

You'll find such an engine in no other car at anywhere near the price of the Ford V-8 for 1936—So why not arrange to drive one today?
